Loose—This afternoon on North Main street, a lady's pocket book containing a $10 gold piece and some silver. The finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving the same at the Gazette office.

M. C. Smith has just received ten dozen large size, nearly one yard square of the old fashioned bandana silk handkerchiefs, which have been so scarce to find for the past ten years, and is selling them at the old price, twenty-five years since. They make a very nice Christmas present for your father, your grandfather or your great grandfather.

Look at Archie Reid's stock.

Never has any house in Janesville offered the people such a variety of the prices McKee & Bro. will sell them at during their sale.

Look at Archie Reid's stock.

Have you seen Postwick & Sons eider-down for dressing suits, jackets, trimmings, etc.? It is the handsomest thing yet out, and will wash without fading, and still retain its beauty and elasticity.

GRAND.

—Marshall North, of Beloit, was in the city to-day.

—Fun on the Bristol at the opera house this evening.

—The Grand Templars' assembly in their hall this evening.

—Rock River Encomium No. 3, I. O. O. F., occupy Odd Fellows hall this evening.

—Captain Pliny Norcross, who has been in New York and Brooklyn for the past ten days, returned home last week.

—The Ancient Order of United Workers assemble this evening, at which a full attendance of members is requested, as the election of officers takes place.

—Mr. Philip Knippenberg and his son Charles, who have been absent in Dakota since last March, have returned home and are heartily greeted by their many friends.

—Miss Ida Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Davies, of the first ward, returned home yesterday, from a three months visit with friends in the east.

—Miss Davies spent most of her time while absent, in New York, Brooklyn, Rochester and other cities in the east, and returns home well pleased with her visit.

—The Rice Travesty comedy company will appear in "Fun on the Bristol," or a "Sleepless Night on the Sound." The company have the best recommendations from the press and public in cities where they have visited this season, and no doubt our people will have the pleasure of listening to one of the best comedies played here in a long time.

—Our amusement loving people should not forget that on next Monday evening occurs the eleventh annual dance of Washington Engine Co. No. 1, which will be held in the Rialto armory. The public are cordially invited to attend, and the members of the company will use every endeavor to pleasantly entertain their guests. Anderson's orchestra will furnish the music.

—Mr. R. L. Colvin received a dispatch this morning, conveying the sad announcement of the death of his mother, which took place at her home in Commerce, Michigan, last evening. Mrs. Colvin had been in poor health for several years past, and although it was known that she was very feeble, her son did not anticipate that her end was so near. Mr. Colvin left on the afternoon train via Chicago, for Commerce, to be present at the funeral, which will be held to-morrow afternoon.

—The Beloit Free Press—Mr. W. Elmer Eddy, son of W. H. Eddy, of Afton, and Miss Jennie A. Eddy, daughter of Hon. H. Eddy, of Watertown, were married on the 18th, and are spending a few days in this city with the bride's uncle, Mr. Willard Calkins and family.

—Miss Jennie A. Eddy, aged 44 years, daughter of Rev. W. H. Eddy, of Afton, died in this city on the morning of the 19th, of hemorrhage of the lungs. The lady had been keeping house for her brother who is attending college here. Her remains were removed to Afton yesterday.

—The artistic taste of Mr. Waller, of the New York Savings store, in trimming the show windows of that establishment is certainly to be commended. Many times during the past season the windows of this establishment have attracted considerable attention, on account of the artistic display of goods. Mr. Waller has been arranging the windows for the holidays, and we must say that he has succeeded in exceeding all his former efforts in this direction. His "Mill on the Floor" which was one of the attractions last summer, was greatly admired, but the east window of the store is now trimmed in a manner to catch the eyes of all who pass that way. He has a miniature house, with large doors and bay windows, the grounds around the house are made to represent water—within the house a dancing party is holding forth, the automatic figures of ladies and gentlemen are arranged on a circular platform, and by means of weights, the figures move around in time with the music, the whole presenting a beautiful holiday scene, and all the work of Mr. Waller, and his little saw.

—That was a sad spectacle in life's drama which presented itself to the gaze of the vulgar world on North Main street last evening, at six o'clock. A spectacle which strikes deep into the hearts of thinking men and women, and one which even in this cold world, naturally draws out the tenderest sympathies for the unfortunate. At six o'clock, as the stores and shops were being closed, and the help were passing out going to their evening meal, a woman was discovered on the walk, helplessly drunk; she reeled and fell to the stone pavement striking upon her back and head. At first, she had in her company an inebriate male companion, who could hardly maintain his perpendicular, and who was trying hard to pilot the unfortunate woman "over the bay," but he lost his reckoning and both went into the gutter head first. The woman parted company with the man at this point, and wandered up Main street until she reached a point nearly opposite the Gazette office. Here she was again overcome by her overdrunken brain and fell into the gutter. Stent and sober men picked her up, and finding where her friends resided, took her to them. It is a pitiable sight to see a man, who so far forgets his duty to himself and his Maker, on our streets in a helpless condition, brought on by excessive drink; but what is it, to thus have presented one whom perhaps some fond child calls "mother," so far forgetting herself, and her duty to the living, as to thus make a public exhibition of her degradation.

—At the regular convocation of Janesville chapter No. 5, R. A. M., held in Masonic hall last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: H. P.—A. S. Lee. K.—C. L. Martin. S.—J. C. Metcalf. Treasurer, James Shearer. Secretary, L. N. Williamson.

Nervousness, Nervous Debility, Neurasthenia, Nervous shock, St. Vitus Dance, Prostration, and all diseases of Nervous General Organs, are all permanently and radically cured by Allen's Brain Food, the greatest botanical remedy. $1 pkg. 50¢; 25¢; 10¢; or by mail from J. H. Allen, 316 First Ave. New York city.

EXOR'S LITTLE CATARACT PILLS are sufficiently powerful for the most robust yet the safest for children and weak constitutions.—15 cents.

The Fair Again.

The fair of St. Mary's society was reopened in Apollo hall last evening, for the purpose of disposing of the articles remaining on hand from their last week.

The attendance last evening was quite large and a number of the remaining articles were disposed of to lucky ticket holders. Thoroughgoing a cornet band was in attendance and enlivened the scene with some choice music. The following is a list of lucky numbers: Fair vases, presented by Mrs. Truitt, drawn by No. 63, John Donahoe; toilet set, presented by Mrs. Mary Hanlan, drawn by No. 60, Joseph Shields, La Prairie; picture, O'Connell, presented by Mrs. Jackson Vickerman, town of Luna, drawn by No. 1, John Cunningham; Cologne set, presented by Mrs. F. Kelly, drawn by No. 97, C. A. Potter; silver pickle casket, presented by Mrs. Patrick Collins, drawn by No. 20, Miss Mary Connelly; boy's suit, presented by Mr. Fred Somerville, drawn by No. 44, E. C. Lloyd. Piece was work, donated by Sisters of Mercy, drawn by No. 35, Mary Quinn; stand lamp, presented by Mrs. John Kelly, drawn by No. 5, Nellie Hurler; child's toilet set, presented by Frank Shorer, drawn by No. 36, Mrs. George Airis, silver butter dish, presented by Holy Name society, drawn by No. 67, Mrs. Maggie Roche; clock, presented by Mrs. Anna Dolan, drawn by No. 23, Mr. Robert Kaila; black velvet pin cushion, presented by Mrs. Donovan, drawn by No. 87, Mrs. Patrick Haggan; tidy, presented by Miss Maggie Hogan, drawn by No. 49, Miss Ceila Egan; set glassware, presented by Mrs. Wm. McBride, Sr., drawn by No. 64, Anton Wolz; toilet set, presented by Miss Bette Nelson, drawn by No. 52, Mrs. Keown; tidy, presented by Miss Alice Grogan, drawn by No. 67, Charles Gray; box cigars, presented by a friend, drawn by No. 53, J. H. Brown; silver spoon holder, presented by Miss Maggie Donahoe, drawn by No. 8, Miss Mary O'Keefe; dinner casket, presented by Holy Name society, drawn by No. 54, Miss Maggie O'Neil; china tea set, presented by the Misses Grant, drawn by No. 77, D. F. Sullivan; pin cushion, presented by Mary Pilkington, drawn by No. 38, John Wilbur; lady's gold ring, presented by Misses Burns, drawn by No. 28, James E. Hickey; tidy, presented by Miss Mary Truitt, drawn by No. 7, Willie O'Neil.

This evening will be the last of the fair, when the remaining articles will be disposed of, also a purse of $50 will be given to some lucky ticket holder.

This has been one of the most popular entertainments of the kind ever held in this city, drawing crowded houses from the start, and the society have been richly rewarded for their time and trouble.

The Court didn't Adjourn.

A laughable scene occurred in the court room yesterday morning. During the trial of an important case, one of the attorneys, who thoroughly appreciates a joke, arose and said, "Your Honor, I wish to call your attention to the fact that the hour has arrived when one of our number, one who has been long and intimately associated with us, is about to take upon himself the holy bonds of matrimony. Mr. Kaveloge is a man whom we not only respect, but in whose welfare we take a lively interest. If the present occasion was one of sorrow caused by his death, Your Honor would consider it a duty to show to his memory marked respect by adjourning the court. The solemn rites of matrimony are only surpassed by the last rites of the funeral occasion, and I therefore move Your Honor, that the court now adjourn for the space of fifteen minutes." The motion was promptly seconded, but the judge decided that while the occasion was indeed solemn and the candidate entitled to much sympathy, that the business of the court could not be delayed.

Throw Away His Crutches.

The Funeral of the Late U. F. G. Collins.

Quite a number of the Masonic fraternity of this city, including a delegation of Knights Templar, went to Beloit on the 10:45 train this forenoon, for the purpose of attending the funeral of the late U. F. G. Collins, which took place at two o'clock this afternoon, under the auspices of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Wisconsin, assisted by the members of all Masonic bodies. The funeral was attended by members of the Masonic fraternity from all parts of the state, especially of Sir Knights. Business, by request of the mayor, was suspended during the funeral, and all the good people of Beloit joined in duly observing the last rites of the truly noble man, and a beloved fellow citizen, and his remains were conveyed to their last resting place, followed by an immense throng of sorrowful friends.

Resolutions.

WHEREAS, It is the Divine provision of our Father in heaven, that death should loose the unfolding spirit for admission into a higher and more beautiful life; and

WHEREAS, Sister Betsey Morrell, of Harmony grange No. 76, and of this Rock county Pomona grange, No. 5, has been called from the mundane to the super-mundane and immortal life, in the prime of her youth and vigor, for the change called death; therefore be it

Resolved, That her removal from the visible to the invisible life, the grange sustains an irreparable loss; not only in the absence of her agreeable and valuable associations, but from the absence of her innocence and virtue as set forth by her beautiful and exemplary life; that society and the world are better for her having lived; and that we are all of us, grieved at her departure.

Resolved, That it is meet we should commemorate her virtue, and profit by her usefulness here. Therefore

Resolved, That our charter be draped for three months in the emblem of the faith, hope, charity and fidelity of our faith.

Resolved, That we extend our sympathy to the bereaved family, by a copy of these resolutions, and also that a copy be sent to the State Bulletin, the Janesville Gazette, and Rock County Recorder for publication.

O. A. STEVENS, JAMES MONTGOMERY, Committee.

Circuit Court.

The attorneys in the Churchill-Wheeler slander case took until nearly three o'clock this afternoon to argue the case, and at that hour the jury retired.

At the time of going to press they are still out. On the last trial eleven of the jurors were willing to give the plaintiff $300, but the twelfth would not give more than $200, and in this condition they disagreed. The obstinate juror at first voted one dollar damages and the others desired to award various sums, some running up to $1,000. The $1,000 man came down to $300, and the $1 juror reluctantly went up to $200. At this point they felt that their respective consciences would not stretch further, they claimed, so this second trial results.

The case of Thomas Mackin vs. Patrick Carney is now being heard. Carney rents Mackin's farm, and Mackin says he is running the land and the buildings by mismanagement and neglect, and wants to get him off. Carney has a five years lease. Messrs Wm. Rucker and Wm. Smith appeared for the plaintiff, and Messrs. Hyzer and Clark for the defendant.

MUNICIPAL COURT.

Justice A. D. Wickham is presiding in this court during the absence of Judge Patton.

Henry Sauer, alias "Big Hank," alias one-eyed Hank, alias "Henry Williams," "the man that stole Ezra Goodrich's overcoat," was before the court this morning to answer to the charge of stealing seventeen dollars in money from John Callahan, at a saloon on West Milwaukee street last evening. The defendant pleaded "not guilty," and his trial was set for Monday, December 24th.

Two tramps, working their way towards the Wisconsin penitentiary, were before the court, and Judge Wickham granted their request, which was to leave town on the first train.

A jury was drawn in the case of the state against George Trenwith, and the trial was set for next Friday.

Sherman Phelps failed to put in an appearance yesterday to answer to the charge of violating an ordinance, in obstructing a street, and judgment was rendered against him, in accordance with the ordinance.

EARTH TO EARTH.

Obsequies of the Late Representative Haskell, of Kansas.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Dec. 21.—An immense crowd was in Lawrence attending the funeral of the late Dudley C. Haskell, representative in congress from the Second district of Kansas. The governor, all the state officers, prominent citizens from all sections of the country, the congressional committee, consisting of John A. Kasson, of Iowa; Lettice, of Ohio; Hancock, Ryan and Plumb, of Kansas; Russell, of Massachusetts; Brown, of Indiana; Cockrell and Burris, of Missouri; and Sergeant-at-Arms Leonard, were among the great concourse present.

The funeral services were held in the morning at Plymouth Congregational church, which was draped in mourning, and magnificent floral emblems, with Mr. Haskell's Knights Templar regalia laid out on the silver mounted black velvet casket. The funeral procession was nearly a mile long, including DeMolay Commandery Knights Templar and Blue Lodge A. F. and A. M. The remains were interred in Oak Hill cemetery. The whole state laments his death. All the business houses in the city were closed and draped in black.

The Short Cuts.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 21.—The collapse of H. R. Jones' banking house at Green Bay, Wis., looks worse as new facts transpire. Great indignation is felt against Jones, as he lost the bank's money in stock speculation. The small earnings of business of poor people, who were lured into the speculation, are being lost through theft and pilfering. In many instances men had sold their places and let their money in the bank until they could buy new farms in the west. Jones' liabilities are $250,000, and his personal assets will not authorize him to pay more than $50,000. Resumption is entirely out of the question.

New York, Dec. 21.—Willett Bronson, a real estate speculator of this city, has made an assignment. Preferences nearly $50,000. A Rochester special says that Bronson, who was one of the largest dry goods merchants there, has just assigned. The liabilities are not yet known.

New York, Dec. 21.—Reports received here from California, Pa., state that the Pullman Lumber company (limited) has failed. The company's business about a year ago with a capital of $80,000.

John R. Cockrell, of the general store of Brasilia, Miss., has made an assignment with liabilities amounting to $40,000.

The Holidays.

To the Editor.

We cannot help at this season of the year, but feel inclined, in the rush and anxiety of the busy world, to pause and reflect on the aim of mankind in general, and the object for which each individual is planning his or her secret plot. Yes, the holidays are only a few days distant; but how much will be done in those few days, to successfully carry out the plans which have occupied our minds, and which will, in the end, result in "making some one happy?" There is something sublime in the approach of Christmas,—grandly sublime—when the church bells ring out the glad tidings of joy, and grand music sounds the praises of the birth of Christ.

You ask, "What shall I buy for a Christmas present?" Well, that depends on circumstances,—for, indeed, "circumstances do alter cases." The heart may be full of gratitude and love toward some kind friend, and the desire to reward that friend with a "remembrance," proportionate to that desire; but unless the pocket book will yield to the demand, that desire must be limited, or only exist as a desire.

And New Years, when we say "good bye" to the old year, and welcome the new year in, has its pleasant memories of the past, and hopes of future joy. There is much that is amusing in the doings and sayings of the throng of "shoppers," intent on buying something for a present, and although all are intent on a good purpose, the sayings are variously and oddly expressed.

Mr. and Mrs. Z., are looking for something to please the children. "There are five of them, you know, Tom, and we must do the best we can with our means," said Mrs. Z., Jim, the oldest, is a serious fellow and likes reading and study, suppose we get him a book to improve his mind; I wouldn't wonder if that boy may be a senator, or some great man yet—his mighty thoughtful, but didn't take after his father, though. Harry, I know, wants a sled and a pair of mittens—he is best on fun, and the hill overlooking Main street, is just now in splendid condition to slide on, and slide he must, so mark that down. Ned must have a drum, that boy is unusually inclined, and may some day "churn" us with his music. All my mother's folks were musicians. Tom, you know Jessie must have a new dress—something bright and comfortable, and a jacket to match. I saw some cheap goods advertised, and I can make it up, and she will look so nice. And dear little Katie wants a doll, with "real hair," I will dress it prettily, and won't she smile?"

A lover is wondering what would make the object of his affections most happy "Well," he says, "she knows I am coming up for our home, and she won't expect much; but a little book I will give, and I think it will be joyfully received." And the young lady has been contriving what would suit her intended life partner; and has been hinting about the size of his boot, as a pair of slippers, she thought would not be "out of place;" and at last she has found out the No. "I don't care," she says, "if they are 10's. I admire a man with a big foot."

A rich man is busy with his thoughts "I must buy my wife something charming; it's the first Christmas she has been Mrs. X. she's a jewel of a wife; what will I get her? She has a seal skin cloak, silks and satins. Oh! I believe those diamond earrings I saw at the jewelry store would eclipse anything in that line she has; money is no object, and won't they shine, and then everybody will say "Mrs. X.'s diamonds are exquisite!"

The "girls" are discussing the appropriateness of something for mother and father, and in their excitement call on their big brother, "John," said they, "We wish to get something for father and mother, and want you to assist us in your counsel and purse." "Well," said John, "You are welcome to my share of the purse, but as for my 'say' in the matter, I don't think you are particular, you would have your own way anyhow; so here's my contribution, settle it between you, and don't let the secret out—it's mighty hard for a woman to keep a secret." "Now," said Sally, the oldest of the three, "we must get something that will be useful, you know they care more for comfort than style, and don't you think a good sensible overcoat for father—his old one is pretty shabby, for church wear; and for mother, a nice easy chair. It would be just the thing for her to rest her weary limbs in; and wouldn't she bless her 'dear girls' as she calls them." "Yes," said Mollie, "Sally, you always conclude rightly." "Settle," said the third, and the agreement was made.

A poor man, with a big heart, reaches the door of his cottage, made bright by a happy wife, and lovely children; yes, they were happy, though they had no money to spare for luxuries. "Mary," the husband says, "I have brought home a turkey, some groceries, and some candy for the children, we will be happy though fortune has not smiled upon us; it is a dull winter, but while I have my health and you to cheer me, we will be content with our lot." "Christmas comes but once a year, but when it comes, let it bring good cheer." CHRISTMAS.
